

344bn

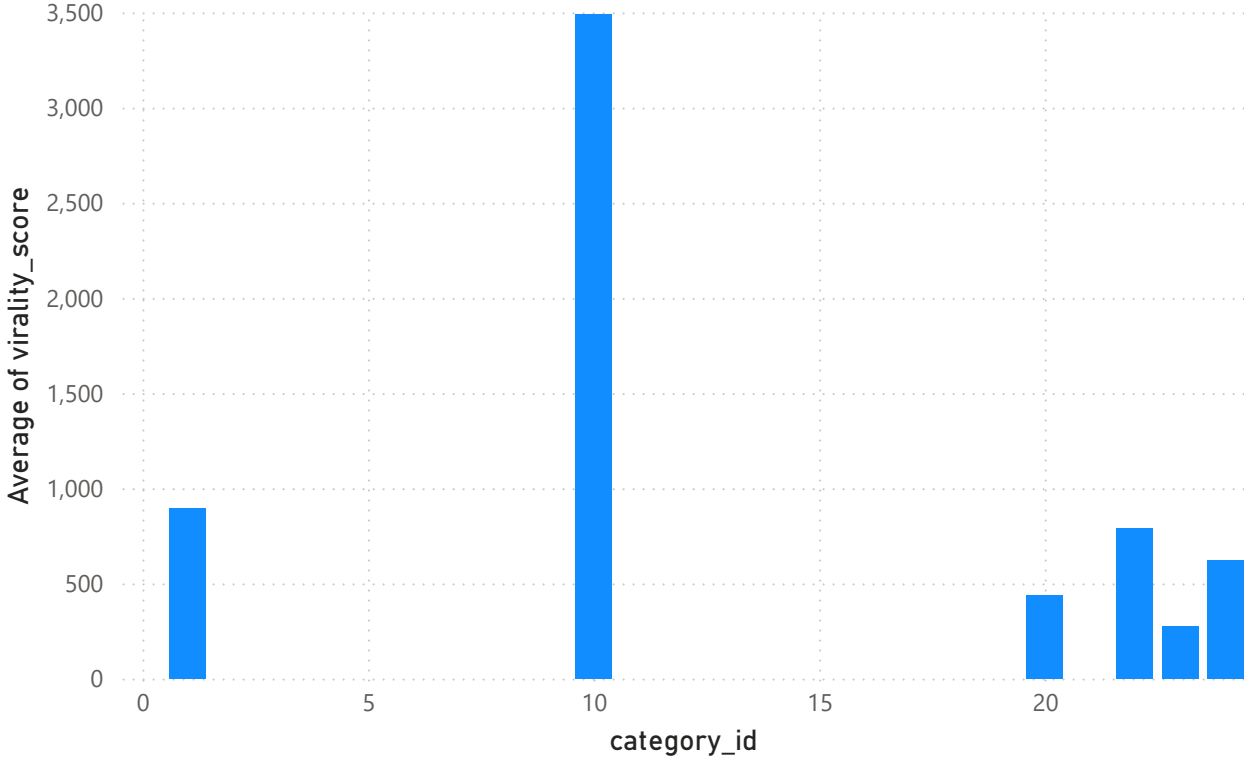

Sum of view_count

category_id
1	10	20
22	23	24

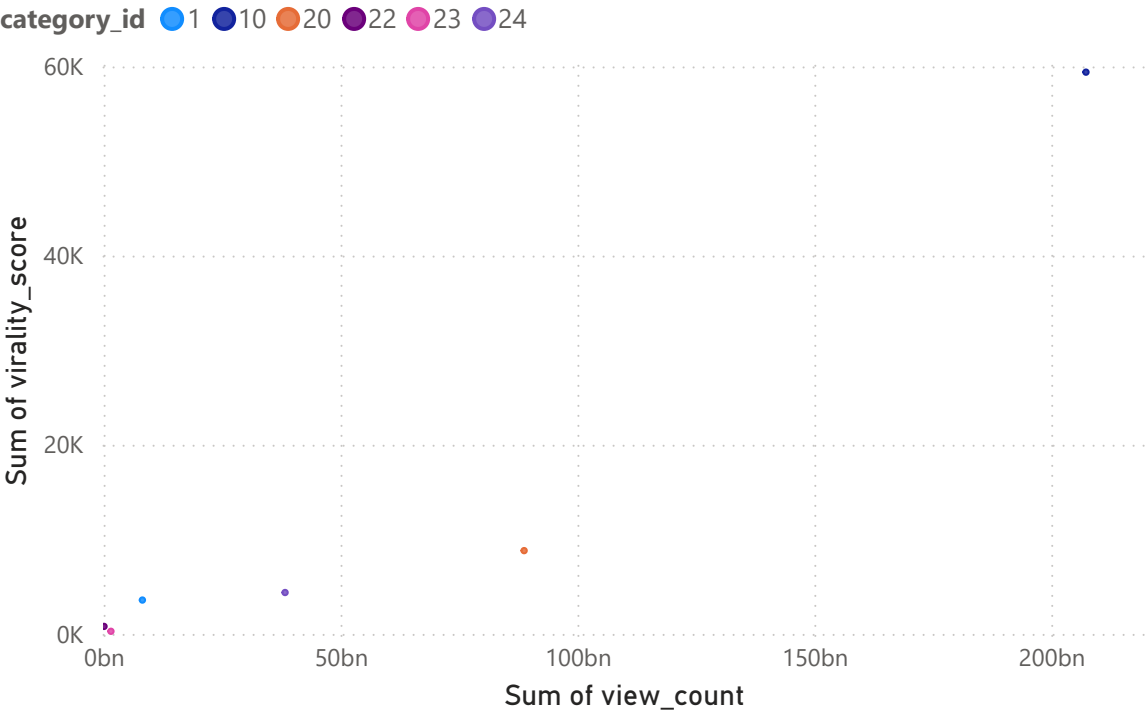

Sum of view_count by title

Average of virality_score by category_id

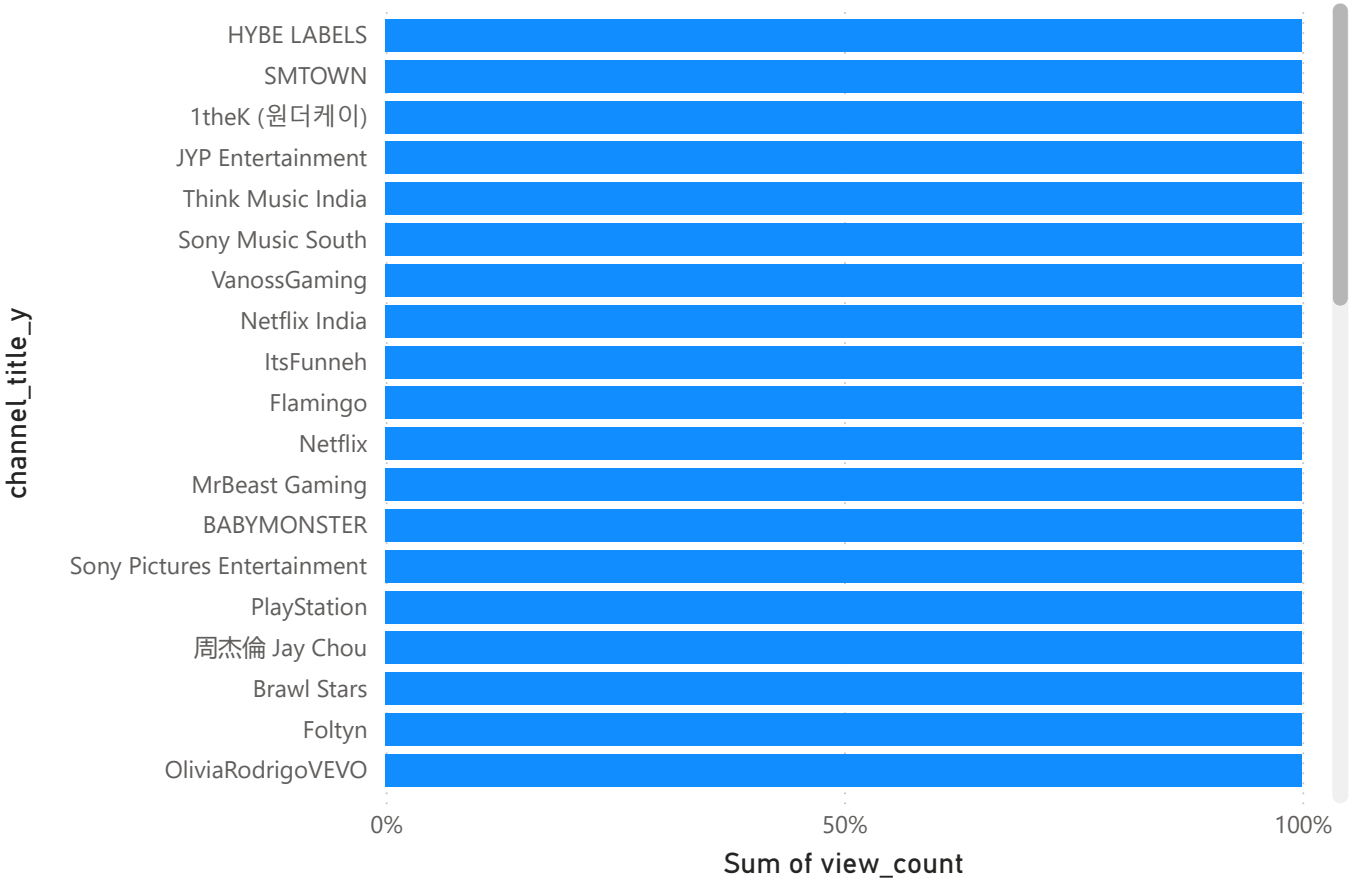

View vs Virality (Bubble Size =Search Hits)

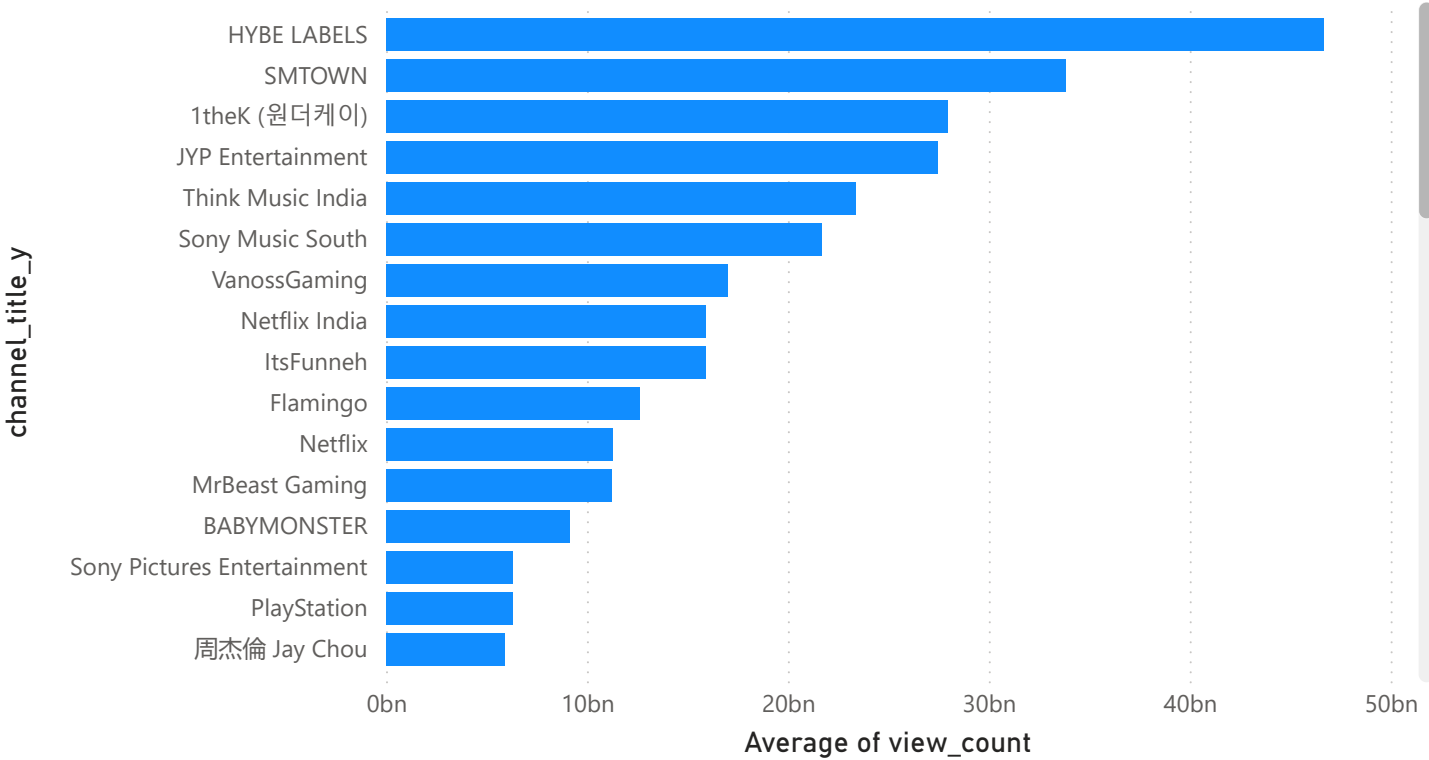

Key Insights:

- Category 10 consistently produces the most viral content.
- High virality rates aligns with high search interest.
- Top-viewed videos are driven by strong branding and recognisable titles.
- Category selections plays a major role in overall video performance.

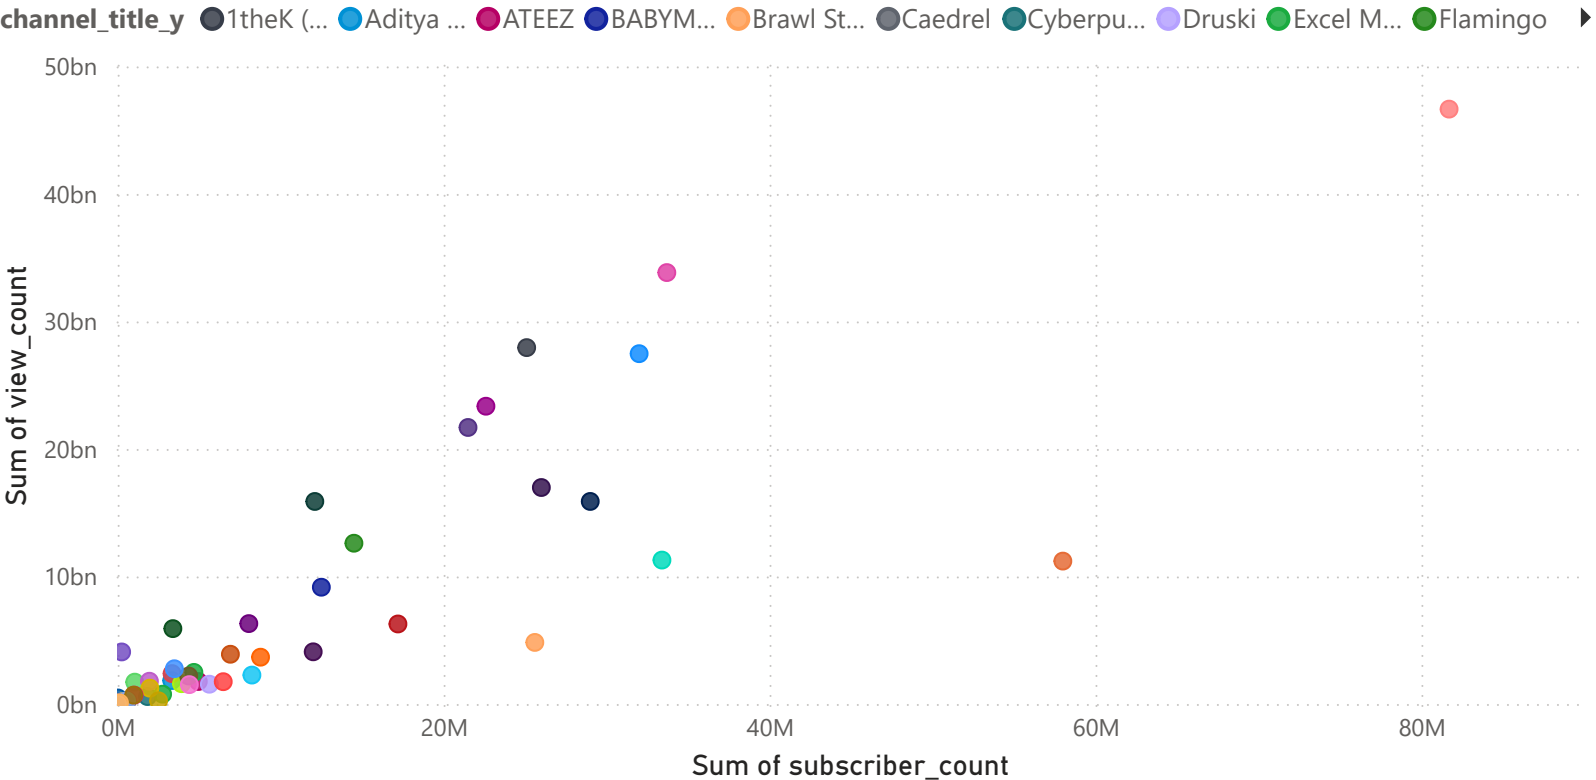

Total Views by Channel

Average Views per Video by Channel

Subscribers vs Views (Correlation)

• Total Views by Channel

This visual highlights which channel generate the highest overall reach. Channels like HYBE Labels, SMTOWN and 1theK dominate with exceptionally high total view counts, indication strong audience demand and large content libraries. This chart provides a top-level view of channel popularity and audience consumption.

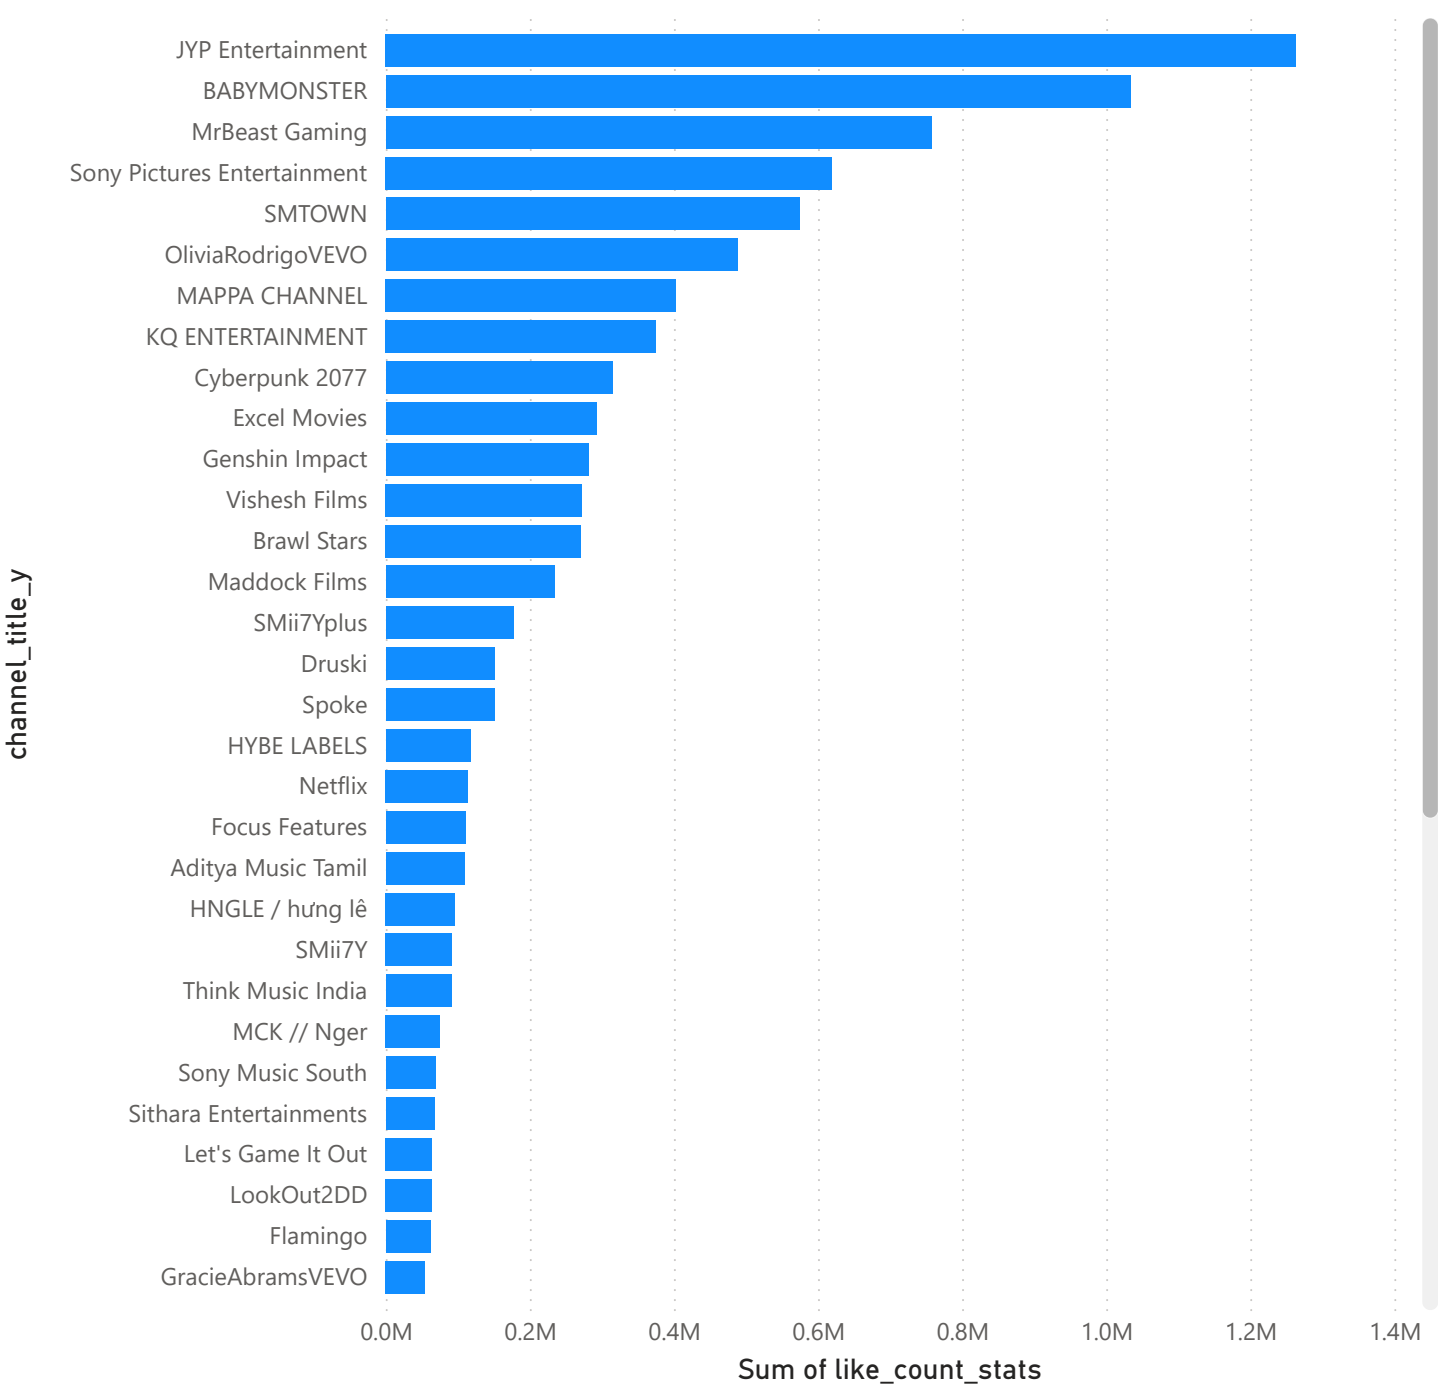

• Average Views per Video By Channel

This chart shows how well each channel performs on a per video basis. Leading the chart are HYBE Labels, SMTOWN and 1theK demonstrating strong performance for individual uploads. This metric reveals content quality and viewer loyalty; which is independent of upload volume.

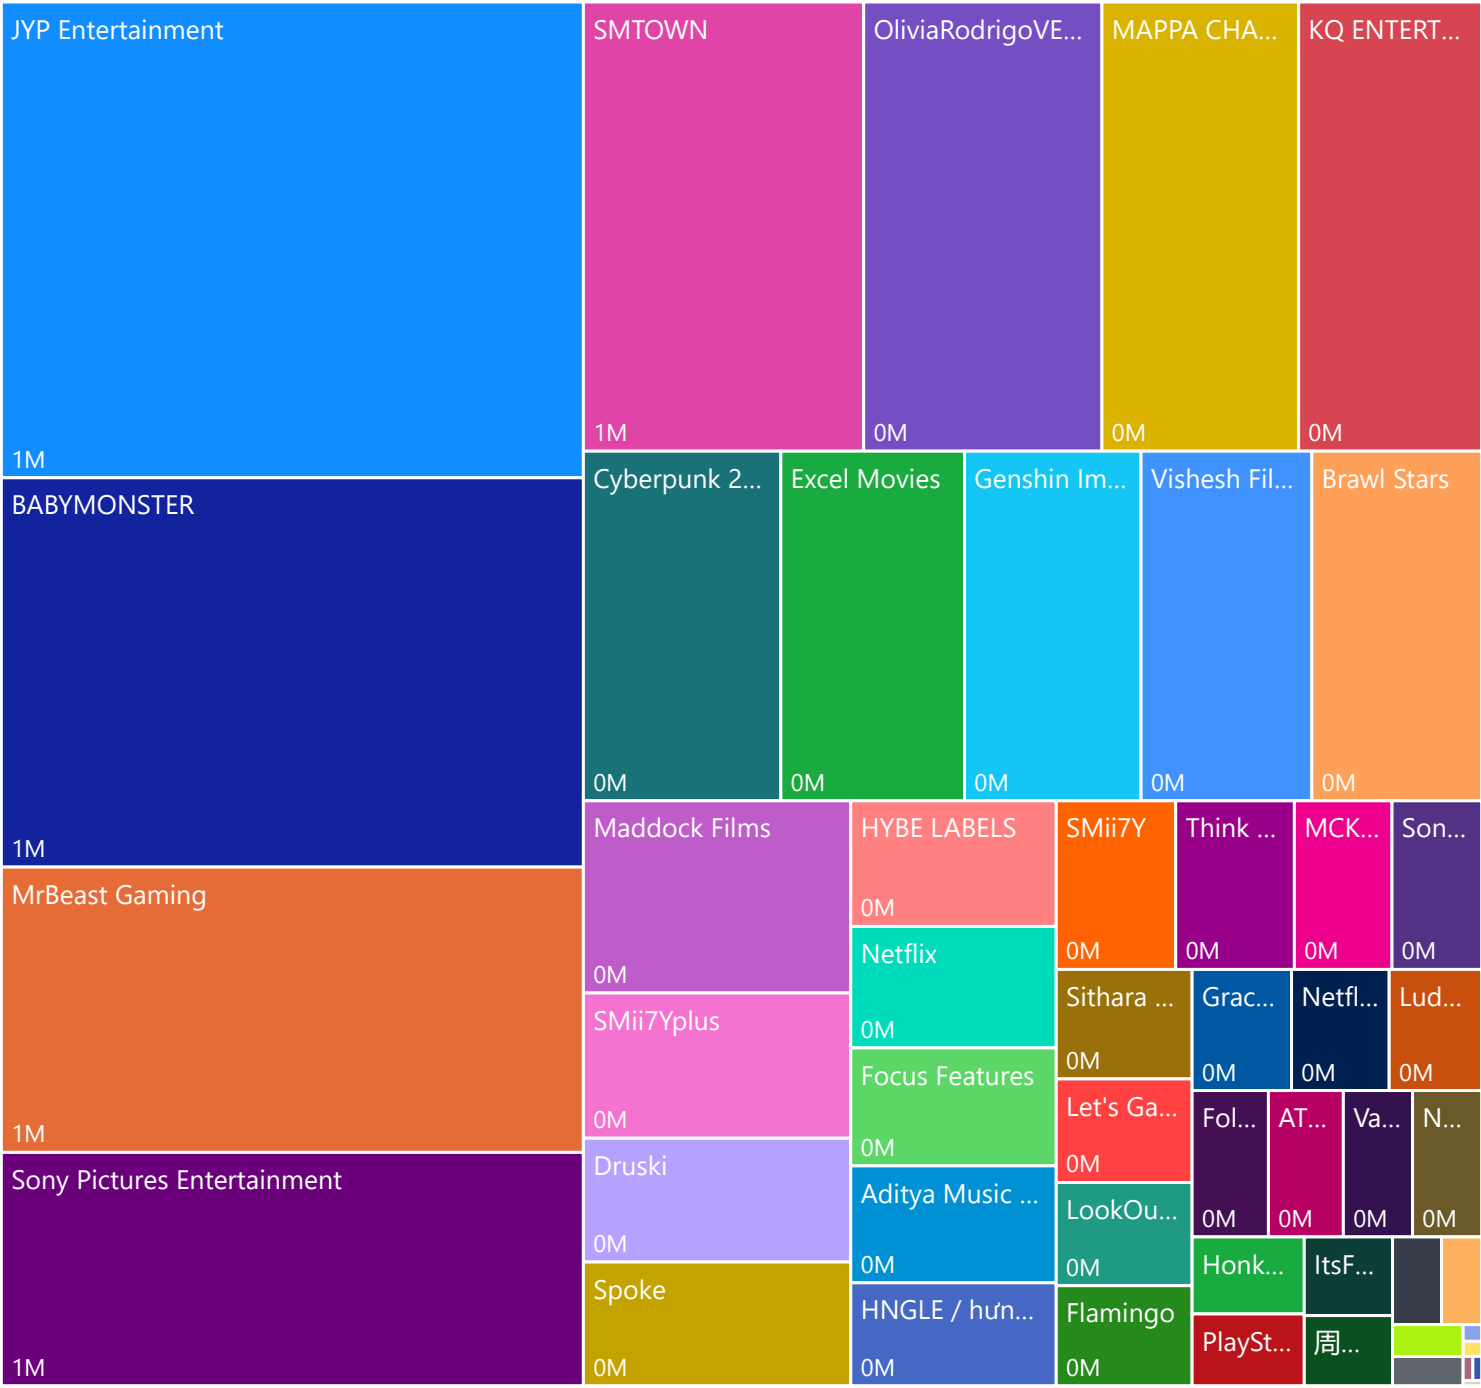

• Subscribers vs Views (Correlation)

This scatterplot visualises the relationship between subscriber count and total views. There is a clear and positive correlation which is; channels with more subscribers generally achieve higher viewer counts. The plot also reveals outliers ie, channels that either underperform relative to their subscriber base. This offers insights into content effectiveness and audience engaqement.

Top Channels by Likes

Likes Distribution by Channel

• Top Channel by Likes

This chart identifies the channels that generate the strongest positive engagement revealing leaders such as JYP Entertainment, BabyMonster and MrBeast Gaming.

• Treemap

The colourful treemap illustrates each channel's share of total likes making it easy to compare engagement levels at a glance.

Together these visuals provide a concise yet powerful view of channel level engagement thus showing which creators consistently capture audience attention.